One of the loveliest cities of the Indian subcontinent, Bangalore is the principal administrative, commercial and industrial centre of Mysore State. Situated in the south eastern quadrant of the State at 12°-58' North latitude and 77°-57' East longitude at an altitude of 5,000 feet above sea level, the city covers an area of about 55 square miles, including the extensions.

HISTORY—Bangalore was founded in 1537 A.D. by Kempe Gowda, (a contemporary of the Moghul Emperor, Akbar, the Great), the most distinguished of all Gowda Chiefs.

History has it that once, while making a tour, Kempe Gowda happened to camp near a village called Shazamintham (the name by which the area now covered by Bangalore was then called) some ten miles south of Vidyanaka. While relaxing in the cool and refreshing shade of a tree he became absorbed in thought and conceived the idea of building a town around that spot. The lovely and up-to-date city that is Bangalore today, is the result of that idea which took birth in the mind of Kempe Gowda over four centuries ago. He obtained permission from King Achyuta Raya to establish his capital here, and in 1537, he built a mud fort* and gave the name "Bengaluru" to the town which he visualised arising around it. As a reward for his zeal and ability several jagirs were granted to him by Achyuta Raya. From the income derived from these jagirs, Kempe Gowda built a number of temples, of which the principal ones are those of Gavi Gangadharaswara at Garlupuram, and the Bull Temple in Hanumanagudi. He also constructed a large tank near these offices and named it Kempegowdai Kere after his family Goddess. He constructed numerous charities for the poor and granted lands as gifts to the brahmins and the brave. Illustrious and far-sighted Kempe Gowda was not only a warrior and a statesman but also a zealous patron of art and learning and attracted many of their votaries to Bangalore. Most of his works still stand as living monuments to his glory and piety. Kempe Gowda predicted a great future for this new township. To mark his idea of the limits to which the city would expand, he actually built four watch-towers at four elevated points around it, prophesying the extent to which the city would spread. His expectation has been more than fulfilled and Bangalore today has developed in every direction far beyond the limits visualised by him.

In the middle of 17th century, Bangalore was for some time the local headquarters of the Sultan of Bijapur, and after him the Marathas held it for some years. Chikka Deva Raja Wodeyar of the Yadava Dynasty acquired it from the Marathas in 1687 A.D. In the 18th century the weakness of the ruler gave an opportunity to Hyder Ali to usurp power. Hyder Ali ruled Mysore from 1761 to 1782 and was succeeded by his son, Tipu Sultan, who continued to hold sway over the State till 1799.

The British captured the town from Tipu Sultan in 1799 and in June that year, Lord Cornwallis, on behalf of the British Government, installed Krishnaraja Wodeyar III as the ruler of the State. Following his orders in the State, the British resumed the administration in 1831 and retained it till the revocation of the State to the Wodeyars in 1891. The ruler at that time was Chamarajendra Wodeyar.

In 1882 the site of Bangalore Cantonment was handed over to the British Government, and from that time it was administered by them as a separate military station. Following independence and the retrocession of the cantonment to India, the city and the cantonment were amalgamated into one municipality and the present Corporation of the City of Bangalore came into being.

THE NAME "BANGALORE" The origin of the name "Bangalore" (Bangalore, as anglicised is even today a debated subject

*This is situated near the Victoria Hospital, opposite the City Market. The original mud fort built by Kempe Gowda in 1537 was enlarged and rebuilt in stone by Hyder Ali. It was occupied for some time by the British forces after the fall of Seringapatna.

RAINFALL.—Bangalore receives the benefit of both the South West and North East monsoons. The average annual rainfall is 87 centimetres (34 inches). October and November are rainy months but the down-pour during these months is not about 12 cms. (5 inches). December to March is practically dry.

POPULATION.—The population of Bangalore has been steadily growing from year to year and has nearly doubled since 1911. Most of the towns and cities of India have swelled in recent years owing to increasing migration from the villages and the general rise in population. The particularly rapid growth of the population of Bangalore is attributable to the numerous industries set up here by the Central and State Governments and private enterprises. The inviting salubrity of the climate of Bangalore is an additional factor. The following figures will give an idea of the rate at which the city's population has grown over the past eight decades:

| Year | Persons |
|---------|-------------------------|
| 1881 .. | 1,51,857 |
| 1911 .. | 4,06,761 |
| 1931 .. | 7,78,977 |
| 1958 .. | 12,00,000 (approximate) |
| 1961 .. | 13,00,000 (approximate) |

LANGUAGES.—Bangalore has become a cosmopolitan city. The following figures give the main languages spoken: Kannada 25.7%; Tamil 31.7% (which also includes the Kannada speaking population with Tamil as mother tongue) Telugu 17.8%; Hindustani/Urdu 17.8%; other languages 10%.

The principal medium of instruction in most of the schools, specially in the City area, is Kannada. In the Civil area, however, there are a number of schools offering instruction in English, Telugu and Tamil.

CITY ADMINISTRATION.—The administration of the City rests with the Corporation of the City of Bangalore, which was constituted under the City of Bangalore Municipal Corporation Act No. LXIX of 1914 (as amended by Act XLVII of 1930 and XXV of 1951). The Corporation has 74 Councillors, comprising 50 elected from general constituencies, 6 representing women, 6 for depressed classes, 4 for labour, 4 for trade and commerce and 5 Abolition

The Councillors are elected once in three years, while the Mayor is elected from amongst the Councillors once every year. The policies and programmes of work to be executed are laid down by the Corporation and the administration is in the hands of the Corporation Commissioners assisted by his staff.

WATER SUPPLY.—The bulk of Bangalore's water supply is drawn from Thippagondanahalli, more called Channarayana, 22 miles west of the City, and is impounded from the Hesaraghatta Tank, about 15 miles away. The supply from these has now reached maximum capacity with a daily release of 17 million gallons, which is quite inadequate to meet the increasing demands of this growing City. A tripartite main line from Thippagondanahalli to the city which will bring up the supply to 25 million gallons. To meet the immediate needs of the City nine overhead tanks are being constructed. Further schemes for the increase of the City's water supply is engaging the attention of the Corporation and the Government. A proposal to draw water from the Cauvery river is also under consideration.

ELECTRICITY.—Electricity was for the first time switched on to Bangalore in the year 1905.

The present supply of electrical energy in Bangalore is drawn from two power stations, viz: the Shimsha Power Station about 70 miles from Bangalore, and the Jegg Power Station near Shimoga about 25 miles from the City. Important industries, both in the public and private sector, like the Hindustan Aircraft, Indian Telephone Industries, Hindustan Machine Tools, Bharath Electronics, Radio & Electricals Material Factoring Co., Motor Industries Co., etc., are supplied with high tension power at 4,000 and 33,000 Volts from the main Receiving Station in Bangalore. There are about 86,740 domestic lighting 9,500 heating and 800 industrial installations in Bangalore. Supply for industrial use is made at 100 Volts, 20 Cycles, 3 phase 4 wire system while for domestic use it is supplied at 230 Volts, 50 Cycles, Single-phase.

In order to meet the shortage of power to the City, two thermal plant packages from the G.L.G. (U.S.) would be coming to Bangalore shortly. Each plant would have a capacity of 10,000 k.w.

In keeping with the general development of the City, the overland distribution system in Bangalore is gradually being replaced by underground cables. To this end the central parts of the City and parts of Malleshwaram are already on the underground system. Work is in progress at Basavanagudi.

TRANSPORT. Bangalore is a city of distances and gradients. Transport within the city is provided in private taxis and rickshaws, cycle-rickshaws and horse-drawn 'pinks', in addition to the City's Bus Transport Service managed by the Government. The Bangalore Transport Service has a fleet of over 220 buses plying on about 70 different routes traversing the city. Regular services run from 6.30 a.m. to 9.45 p.m. There are also limited "Night Specials" running between important points in the City up to 1.30 in the night. Although the number of buses and routes have been increased in the recent past, they cannot be said to be adequate, the pressure being particularly felt during the 'peak hours' with thousands of office-goers and school-going children depending on bus transport.

Regular bus services are also available from the City to all the important towns in the State. Private buses are also licensed to ply on certain specified routes. The main bus stand from where all municipal buses leave Bangalore is at Kalahalli, about two miles from the City Market. All incoming buses also touch this stand.

The Government of Mysore have handed over the southern portion of Sultan Nagar in Bangalore to the Mysore State Road Transport Corporation for the construction of a bus stand both for the City and municipal services.

There are several good Travel Agencies operating in Bangalore and tourists and citizens can utilize their services with advantage in plan their visits to places of importance in the State. Many of these agencies run special deluxe tourist buses of their own and organize periodical excursion trips. A list of such agencies with their telephone numbers is given under "Tourist Services" in the General Information Section. Many of these agencies also advertise their periodical excursion programmes in the local dailies.

There are also a number of transport agencies in Bangalore which operate large fleet of trucks for transport of goods from Bangalore to other towns in the State and to other important cities of India.

SOCIOTECNOLOGICAL LIFE LINE. Bangalore may be broadly divided into three types of zones, viz., industrial zones, commercial zones and residential zones. Certain areas around Bangalore have been earmarked for the development of industries; such areas are Jalahalli, Rajajinagar industrial area, Magadi Road, Mysore Road, Doornavalli Nagar, Andugodi, etc. Some major as well as small-scale industries have already developed in these areas, and some are in the process of development. Cottage industries like gita and gold thread manufacture, rice darning, agarkutli silk weaving, etc., are concentrated in the congested business zone. Efforts are being made by Government to transfer to industrial areas some of the industries which use power.

Chickpet, Balepet, Ayrone Road, 114 Tharagupet, New Tharagupet, Gundupanth Street, Sultanpet, Cottonpet, Malavalli Rama Rao Road, Silver Jubilee Park Road, Sri Narayana Raja Road, Sri Jayahamaraja Road and surrounding areas in the City, and Old Town House Road, Ibrahim Sahib Street, Commercial Street, Bilgode Road, and Mahatma Gandhi Road in the Civil Area, are the chief commercial zones.

Malleshwaram, Sethadripetam, Rajajinagar, Jayanagar, Wilson Gardens, Basavanagudi, Shankarapuram, Visvesvarapuram, Rajmahal, etc., and practically the whole of the Civil Area, are chiefly residential.

Bangalore is a cosmopolitan city where people of different faiths and religions lead their lives according to their own way. Hindu, Muslim, Sikh, Christians, Anglo-Indians, Parsis are spread out in the whole of the City and Civil Area and are not confined to any particular place. In some localities, however, we find a large number of a particular community living together for social convenience. There is complete harmony between people of various communities.

There being a number of industrial concerns, there is an appreciable proportion of people of the labour class. Almost every labourer is a member of some labour association.

Due to migration of people from villages and other States, and the comparatively slow development of industries, unemployment is on the increase. Talented and qualified people are available, but owing to a lack of initiative in investing on large industrial undertakings, for various reasons of inadequate water and power supply, it has not been possible to absorb them fully. Some of the comprising young men, however, find their way to other undertakings outside Bangalore, and thus a large number of Bangaloreans occupy responsible positions elsewhere. Efforts are being made by the Government to improve water and power supply position and encourage more industries to come up.

The cost of living is 415.87 (base index figure 100 in 1935-36). The cost of living is slightly higher when compared to cities like Hubli, Dharwar, Belgaum, Gulbarga, while it is lower compared to cities like Delhi, Bombay, Calcutta. The cost of living in Madras may be said to be more or less the same as in Bangalore.

There are signs of an upward trend in the cost of living in Bangalore.

DEVELOPMENT OF BANGALORE—The growth and development of Bangalore in recent years has been phenomenal. Various reasons have been ascribed for its growth and attraction, the principal among which are its salubrious climate with no extremes of temperature at any part of the year, its central location in South India well served with air, rail and road communications, its protected water supply, and the availability of electric power though inadequate compared to the growing demand. These factors together with the liberal policy followed by the State Government in encouraging industries have been responsible for several industries, big and small, both in the public and private sectors, springing up in and around Bangalore. In fact Bangalore has come to be one of the hot places in India to be thought of for the location of new institutions and industrial concerns of an All-India nature. The location of vital industrial houses like the Hindustan Aircraft, Hindustan Machine Tools, the Indian Telephone Industries, the Bharath Electronics, the Muni Industries Co., the Radio and Electricals Manufacturing Co., the Kirloskar Electric Co., etc., in addition to numerous cloth mills, cotton, silk and woollen, engineering workshops and handicrafts like handloom, carpet, agarbathi and various other industries, has changed the face of Bangalore and has made it one of the most important industrial centres of resurgent India. This industrial development has naturally catalysed commercial activity, prompting numerous reputed home and banking houses to open their branches or agencies here and making the local markets such in buzzing activity.

Bangalore is the fifth largest city in India in respect of the number of telephone lines, the last four being Calcutta, Bombay, Delhi and Madras.

A scheme to further expand the capacity of the Bangalore Telephone Exchange from 10,000 to 15,000 lines has been sanctioned and will be put through within about 15 months.

Apart from the main exchange, Bangalore will have three more exchanges at Ulsoor, Basavangudi, and Malleswaram. The introduction of the coaxial cable system for trunk lines between Bangalore, Hubli, Bangalore and Madras would be completed by 1955.

Scope has been afforded for the development of small-scale industries by the establishment of an 'Industrial Estate' at Rajaji Nagar. This Industrial Estate is designed to provide facilities to an aspiring small-scale industrialist or even an artisan to manufacture his wares without fear of lack of finance, raw materials, power or water supply. The Estate even arranges for the sale of the manufactured articles through co-operation on reasonable terms. It offers accommodation, use of special and heavy machines, laboratory facilities, specialised technical guidance, etc., at moderate charges within the reach of the small-scale manufacturer. Another similar Industrial Estate is proposed to be established shortly near Andugudi in the South East of Bangalore.

The Government of India have decided to set up a central laboratory in Bangalore to tackle the technical problems faced by the physical industry.

Bangalore is also a great educational centre. It is the seat of a number of national institutions like the Indian Institute of Science, Ramana's Institute, the All India Institute of Mental Health, the National Anatomical Laboratory, etc., in addition to numerous professional and general colleges, technological institutes, music and art schools, etc. There are also a number of excellent Primary, Middle and High Schools, both Government and private, offering instruction in the local vernacular and English medium.

It is a residential teaching university but not an affiliating university, and is responsible for teaching, research and extension in respect of agriculture, animal husbandry and allied subjects.

The Government of Mysore have appointed a Committee to suggest measures for the establishment of a new University for Bangalore. The Committee has now issued a questionnaire inviting considered views on various aspects of the proposed University like aspects of education, jurisdiction, location, means of finance, the methods of coordination between industry and the University, etc.

The Bangalore Stock Exchange Limited is recognised by the Government of India with effect from 15th February 1955. The recognition which is for five years in the first instance covers the area of Bangalore Municipal Corporation. Every contract in securities in this area, entered into after the 15th February 1955 otherwise than between the members of the Bangalore Stock Exchange Ltd. or through or with such other members shall be illegal.

An up-to-date Art Gallery is proposed to be constructed just behind the Visvesvaraya Industrial Museum, on Kanurki Road, at an estimated cost of Rs. 10 lakhs. There is also a proposal to house an aquarium at the Victory Hall.

In respect of medical treatment too, Bangalore commands good facilities. The Victoria and Vaid Vilas Hospitals in the City area and the Bowring and Lady Curzon Hospitals and the Lunatic San Asylum Hospital in the Civil Area are large and up-to-date Government institutions. The St. Martha's Hospital in the City is a large private missionary institution where also medical facilities and specialist attention are available. A well equipped large hospital has been opened at Rajajinagar extension to render medical assistance to the factory workers under Employers State Insurance Scheme. In addition there are a number of dispensaries and maternity homes run by the Corporation throughout the City and its extensions, besides many private nursing homes, clinics and consulting rooms. The Mental Hospital attached to the All-India Institute of Mental Science and the Shantala Devappa Shivaram 'Tuberculosis Sanatorium on the Home Road are noted institutions. A hospital to cater exclusively to the needs of the policemen and their families will be opened in Bangalore.

Not far from the Home Road are noted institutions. A hospital to cater exclusively to the needs of the policemen and their families will be opened in Bangalore.

Nor is Bangalore backward in cultural and social activities. A number of renowned institutions like the Indian Institute of World Culture, the Gokhale Institute of Public Affairs, Sri Ramakrishna Ashrama, the Chinnaya Mission, the Kannada Sahitya Parishat, the Youth Association of Asia, the Indo-American, Indo-Soviet, Indo-German and Indo-Japanese Associations, and numerous other organisations, libraries, etc., stimulate the thought of the City's inhabitants right round the year. In addition, many other local associations arrange periodical music and dance recitals, dramatic performances, lectures, symposia and group discussions that entertain and educate. Bangalore is also an important Christian missionary centre. No visitor can miss the excellent churches and cathedrals situated in the Civil Area that stand out in grandeur of their distinctive architecture.

The Town Hall (Sir Putanna Chetty Town Hall) situated in the heart of the City about half a mile from the City Market, is the venue of most of the important public meetings, music recitals and dramatic performances. Built in granite in the European classical style, this building is equipped with a spacious auditorium with excellent lighting arrangements and can comfortably seat over 1,500 persons.

The Jagde Memorial National Theatre near the Town Hall on the Jayachamaraja Road recently completed is also a venue of art and cultural programmes.

HOUSING.—The phenomenal growth in the population of the City, particularly in recent years, has resulted in considerable pressure on housing accommodation. The Bangalore City Improvement Trust Board was established by Government in 1945 to serve as a planning and executive agency primarily for the purpose of providing additional housing facilities and for improving congested and insanitary areas in the City. The establishment of the Board has resulted in a timely check on the haphazard growth of the City and has developed it on well-planned lines, fixing locations for big as well as small industrial and residential extensions. The Board has so far developed 9 extensions, viz., the industrial extension of Rajajinagar and the residential extensions of Jayanagar, Wilson Gardens, Vyalikaral, Kumbha Park, Sunkeshalli, Jayanahal, Sampigehalli and Sadashivanagar, and some more lay-outs have already been formed.

While the clean new extensions springing up around the city are a spectacular panorama, they contrast glaringly with the congested, old and over-built patches that dot the heart of the City. The demolition of these antiquated buildings and re-development of these areas, although a costly project, is an imperative necessity.

With a view to limiting the growth of the City, a 38-mile-long arterial road gliding the 5-mile belt area of Bangalore is proposed to be built. This 250-foot wide road, to be built at a cost of Rs. 20 lakhs, is expected to be opened for vehicular traffic by 1965. With the completion of a chain of nine schemes launched by the Trust Board for laying out new extensions embracing some 30 villages within a two-mile belt area of Bangalore, the extent of the City will increase to 200 square miles. An ambitious plan for the development of extensions has been drawn up by the Bangalore Development Committee, specially established for the purpose, and the recommendations of the Committee are being gradually implemented. The preparation and adoption of a Master Plan for Bangalore and its environs is receiving the active consideration of Government, and when this is implemented the face of Bangalore will be totally changed.

ROADS: Out of a total of 360 miles of roads in Bangalore, 11 miles are covered with concrete surface, nine miles with bitumen carpet, 215 miles with painted surface, 45 miles under gravel surface, 36 miles under paved surface and the rest 15 miles are provided with pitching. The Corporation has taken up sheltering of 112 miles of roads in various localities at a cost of Rs. 65 lakhs.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT: The Corporation of Bangalore has planned to install the sewage disposal plant at a cost of Rs. 25 lakhs to treat sewage water, at the same time producing sewage gas in the process. Out of the three sewage outfalls at Koranganagala, Challaibhatti and Kenchanahally, the plant will be first installed at Koranganagala and then moved to the other two points.

Places of Interest in Bangalore

GUBBON PARK.—Gibbon Park, now renamed Jayanagarajendra Park, is a paradise of green stretching over an area of 200

acres in the centre of Bangalore and attracts thousands of men and women, young and old, from all walks of life. In scenic beauty, sylvan quietude, luscious grassy expanse and fountain offer irresistible invitation. Within the Park is situated the Seshadri Iyer Memorial Hall, an imposing building in red granite which houses the Public Library. The Government Museum, the Century Club and the Atara Karchel (Public Office) are also situated within the Park. There is a white marble statue of the late Sri Chamaraja Wodeyar and an equestrian statue of Sir Mark Cuddeon, Chief Commissioner of Mysore during 1891-1897. At the eastern end of the Park is a statue of Queen Victoria, while one of King Edward VII is at the northern side. Near the statue of Queen Victoria is the statue of Mahatma Gandhi. There is a band-stand within the Park, where top-class orchestral recitals are arranged by the Corporation every Sunday evening for the entertainment of the public. The illuminated "Fairy Fountain" is a spectacular sight which attracts the young and old alike, and reminds one of the famous Brindavan Gardens near Mysore.

LAL BAGH.—One of the richest and most beautiful gardens in Mysore State, the Lal Bagh, situated about a mile and a half to the south-east of the City Market, is a place of rest and relaxation. Apart from the artfully laid-out expansive lawns, flower-beds and fountains, the garden contains a rare and valuable collection of tropical and sub-tropical plants and fruit trees that attract both the horticulturist and the layman.

The colourful flower-beds and flowering trees, laid out and maintained with meticulous care, are at once a feast to the eye and a delight to the soul. Far from the maddening crowd and hubbub of the City, many a family every day seek restful relaxation in this lovely garden. The Lal Bagh garden also houses the office of the Mysore Horticultural Society. The Society holds free classes for practical training in gardening. There is a sales depot of the Society, open between 8 a.m. and 12 noon (except on Sundays and Government holidays) from where selected seedlings, plants, etc., can be purchased.

Besides the lawns and gardens, there is a spacious "Glass House" situated inside the park. This is an exquisite huge hall artistically built with crystal-glass roofing and is available on hire at a cost of Rs. 150 per FORT—Near the Krishnarajendra Market (popularly known as the City Market) is the historic Fort and Palace. This Fort originally built in mud by Kempe Gowda, was re-built in stone in 1561 by Hyder Ali. Daulat Bahadur of the British Army was captured and detained for Hyder Ali in this Fort, along with a number of other British officers. The Fort was later taken by Lord Cornwallis in 1791 and has since been preserved as a place of historical interest.

TIPPU SULTAN'S PALACE—A short distance from the Fort, by the side of the Venkataramaswamy temple is Tippu Sultan's Palace. Resembling the 'Darja Dowlah' at Seringapatam, the palace is a typical specimen of Saracenic architecture. The structure is carefully preserved by the Government as an ancient monument.

THE GOVERNMENT MUSEUM—Established in 1866, the Government Museum situated in Jayachamarajendra Park (Cubbon Park) is one of the oldest museums in India. Built in red stone, it houses a very rare collection of antiquities relating to archaeology, cultural history, numismatics, ethnology, fine arts, industrial art and natural history.

Working Hours—8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on all days (including Sundays) except Wednesdays and Saturdays. Wednesday is a complete holiday, while on Saturdays the Museum is open from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. only. 2 to 5 p.m. on Mondays is exclusively reserved for ladies. Phone: 6191.

THE BANGALORE PALACE—The Bangalore Palace, built on a spacious site in the style of Windsor Castle, London, with a rich garden and orchard, is situated in the High Grounds to the north of Vidhana Soudha. It is the official residence in Bangalore of His Highness Sri Jayachamarajendra Wodeyar, Governor of Mysore. Permission to see the Palace is usually granted only when His Highness is not in Bangalore. Superintendent, Bangalore Palace, High Grounds, Bangalore-1 (Telephone: 2118) should be contacted for necessary permission.

THE INDIAN INSTITUTE OF SCIENCE—One of the foremost scientific institutions in the country, the Indian Institute of Science (popularly known as the Tata Institute) is the priceless gift of the philanthropic industrialist, the late Sir Jamshedji

Nusserwanji Tata who, visualising the vital role that science would play in the advancement and welfare of the country, bequeathed properties of considerable value in Bombay as endowment and secured the support of the Government of India and the Government of Mysore for its establishment in Bangalore. Before he could see his aim actually materialise, unfortunately, J. N. Tata passed away in Europe in 1901, but his loyal sons Shri D. J. Tata and Shri R. J. Tata devoutly implemented their father's desire. The Government of India passed a vesting order in 1914 creating a Trust, and the foundation stone of the Institute was laid by His Highness Sri Krishnarajendra Wodeyar, Maharaja of Mysore, on 1st February 1911. Impressively built in granite over an extensive area, the Institute has steadily enlarged and developed from year to year and is today the premier institution in the country for post graduate specialised research and advanced instruction in science and engineering. In various departments cover practically every branch of pure science, applied science, engineering and technology, besides a section of economics and social sciences, the Institute's laboratories are fitted with the latest equipment, manned and directed by a select team of scientists and technologists. There are also a number of scientific societies functioning at the Institute, like the Association of Scientific Workers of India, the Bio-chemical Society, the Chemical Engineering Association, the Electrical Engineering Society, the India Sections of the Electro-chemical Society Inc., the Royal Institute of Chemistry, etc. The Institute has contributed much to the material and industrial progress of India.

THE VIDHANA SOUDHA One of the most impressive buildings built in post-independence India, the Vidhana Soudha is a massive and imposing structure in granite overlooking the expansive Cubbon Park. This four-storied ornamental structure, built at a cost of Rs. 2½ crores in the Dravidian style with towering columns, captivating frescoes and carvings, is rectangular in shape and has a total plot area of over 5,05,000 square feet. The building houses both the Houses of the State Legislature and accommodates the entire Secretariat, the State Honor Treasury and several other State Government offices. Hours of visit: Sundays and Holidays 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Working days: 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Places of interest around Bangalore

BANNERGHATTA—An ideal picnic spot situated about 13 miles from Bangalore. Take the Hoim Road from Lal Bagh north gate. After two furlongs from the Mental Hospital, take a turn to the right (South) from the large circle and follow this road. A short distance after the 12th mile there is a travellers' Bungalow. Bannerghatta hill, tank, village, the temples and a choultry are about a furlong away from here.

BEJUR: 138 miles from Bangalore is famous for its Chennakeshava temple, one of the most exquisite specimens of Hoysala architecture. It was constructed in 1117 A.D. by the Hoysala king Vishnuvardhana. It is a single-celled shrine and is noted for its dancing stone figures.

HALEBID: About 11 miles from Bejur is Halebidu, once a flourishing capital of the Hoysala king. It has the most imposing of monuments, the Hoysaleswara temple dedicated to Lord Shiva. It is a twin-celled shrine with designs of an amazing variety.

CHAMARAJASAGAR (TIPPA GONDA NAHALI)—A famous spot and an ideal picnic resort about 22 miles from Bangalore, the main reservoir of Bangalore's water supply is situated here. The artificial lake (Chamarajasagar) is erected by a dam built across the river Arkavathi whose monsoon waters are stored for supply to the City throughout the year. The place has a comfortable and well-furnished Inspection Bungalow, for advance reservation of which the Executive Engineer, Water Supply Division, Annala Rao Circle, Bangalore-9, should be contacted.

DEVARAYANADURGA: About 3,000 feet above sea-level, the hill is at a distance of about 7 miles from Tumkur or 54 miles from Bangalore. At the foot of the hill there is a natural water spring called "Narmada Chikume" and on the top there is a temple dedicated to Sri Ugra Narasimha and Sri Yoga Narasimha. On the lower hill, there is a temple dedicated to Sri Bhuga Narasimha. This forest region abounds in tigers. There is a Travellers' Bungalow on the top of the hill and a forest lodge and a Taluk Board T.B. at the foot of the hill.

Devarayana Durga can also be reached from Bangalore by the deviation road at Ooradgere village on the Bangalore-Madhusgiri Road.

GHATI SUBRAMANVA: It is situated 33 miles from Bangalore and 11 miles from Doddaballapur in the midst of ghats. The nearest railway station is Makali Durga, two miles away on the Bangalore-Gumakal line. The temple of Lord Subramanya is an ancient and historic temple built by Maharaja Yesvantaraj Ghimpaide, a Prime of the Royal Family of Sandur. There are a number of choultrys where tourists can stay. The annual jatta draws large crowds of pilgrims.

HESARGHATTA—The well-known Hesarghatta Agricultural and Fruit Farm is situated about 18 miles from the City. Take the Bangalore-Tumkur Road and turn right at the eighth milestone. There is a large farm of about 2,000 acres known as the Composite Livestock Farm, besides a Hallikara farm, Poultry farm with about 10,000 birds of several exotic breeds, a dairy farm, and a sheep farm where selective breeding of the world-famous breed of mountain type sheep is carried on. Besides, there is a picturesque lake and a Boating Club which hires out rowing boats to members only. The place is an ideal venue for picnics. There is a 'Travelers' Bangalore which has limited accommodation, for reservation of which the Executive Engineer, Water Supply Division, Ananda Rao Circle Bangalore, may be contacted.

KAUDALA: About 3 miles from Tumkur and a few hundreds from Gulur village, Kaudala is known for its temple, a beautiful Hoysala structure, supposed to have been built in 1159 A.D. by the famous sculptor Jakanachari.

KOLAR GOLD FIELDS: About 60 miles from Bangalore by road or rail, the Kolar Gold Mines are an interesting tourist spot. The four mines now under the control of the Government of India have been working continuously for the last 75 years, and three of them have reached depths in excess of 8,000 feet vertically below surface. The deepest working mine on the field and, incidentally in the world, the Channarayana Reef Gold Mine, has reached 8,250 feet below field datum. The Secretary of the Gold Mining Undertaking, K.G.F., may be approached for facilities to visit these Mines. There are well furnished 'Travelers' Bungalows.

JOG FALLS: Jog Falls are at a distance of about 92 miles from Shimoga or 211 miles from Bangalore or Mysore. They are four in number (the Raja, the Rani, the Roarer and the Rocket) formed by the Sharavathi falling into an abyss 850 feet deep. With luxuriant vegetation around, it offers picturesque natural scenery. This is one of the world's beauty spots.

The Mahatma Gandhi Hydro-Electric Works at Jog is a high head generating station, working at a gross head of 1205 feet. The installed capacity of the Station is 120,000 K.W.

MEKIDATHI: It is a beauty spot about 70 miles from Bangalore in Kanakapura (Kankuballi) taluk of Bangalore District. It is three miles from Sangam, the confluence of the rivers Kaveri and Arkavathi, and about 9 miles from Salim, a hotel headquarters and a roadside village. The river, run here in a deep ravine 14 to 16 feet in width, over which a goat can easily take a jump, hence the name. At the confluence are the temple of Sanganeshwara, and a travellers' bungalow under the control of the Taluk Board.

MELKOTE: 33 miles from Mysore by road through Pandarapura in Mandya District, this town is a sacred place to the Hindus, particularly Sri Vaishnavas. It was here that the Sri Vaishnavas preceptors Sri Ramanuja and Sri Vedanta Desikan lived and taught. The Vairamudi festival is held here during March-April attracting a large number of pilgrims. Sri Tamarayanarwamy temple and Sri Narsimharwamy temple, which are on the top of the hill, are important. Besides, the town up the hill is a beauty spot. In the night one can get an enchanting view of Mysore City with a myriad twinkling lights.

MYSORE: 86 miles from Bangalore, the garden city with the Chamundi Hill as an enchanting backdrop is the headquarters of the district of the same name, and till a decade ago, the capital of the Wodeyar dynasty.

The city is an educational and industrial centre. It is the seat of the Mysore University and a number of research institutions such as the Oriental Research Institute, Central Food Technological Research Institute, etc. The Jawahar Cane Factory is located here besides the Government Silk Factory and Sandalwood Oil Factory.

The great annual event of the City is the Dasara Celebration held in September-October, which draw lakhs of people from inside and outside the State. The annual Dasara Exhibition, which is industrial, educational and cultural in character, forms an important part of the occasion.

The Zoological Garden, Sri Chamarajendra Technical Institute, Sri Chamarajendra Art Gallery (Jaganmohan Palace), Chamundi Hill, the Central Food Technological Research Institute are some places worth visiting in Mysore.

12 miles from Mysore are Krishnajasagara and Belandara gardens with water fountains which are illuminated on week-ends and on special occasions. They can be got illuminated on other days also on payment of Rs. 100.

NANDI HILL: 37 miles from Bangalore by road or by rail, in Nandi Hill, a small but well-known summer resort. There is a motorable road to the top of the hill. It is situated at a height of 4,850 feet above sea level. There is a fairly extensive plateau with a garden. The dome fortifies on the Hill is of special appeal to those interested in history as well as in biology. There are well furnished bungalows for lodging and good catering establishments. The Superintendent, Government Gardens, Bangalore, has to be contacted for reservation of accommodation.

SHIMSHA: The Shimsha hydro-electric station is a tribute to the engineering skill of Mysore. Drawing Kaveri water for about 8 miles from Shiravanmudi, the generating station here makes use of the greater height of the Shimsha valley to generate electricity. The Shimsha river, which falls into the valley from the opposite side of the bank is neither potential nor of sufficient discharge, and therefore is not harnessed. Shimsha town, built round the Station on undulating terrain, presents by day an enchanting view and by night, when illuminated, a fairyland effect. It is a quiet week end resort.

SHIVAGANGA: an enchanting hill 4,559 feet above sea-level, 58 miles from Bangalore in Tumkur District, abounds in beauty spots and places of historical interest and religious importance. There are several temples, of which the rare temple of Sri Gangahareswara and Hemadri can be mentioned. Of the several Tibbhas, Parala Ganga is the most famous. There are Muti and Bharmashali in the village at the foot of the hill.

SIDDHAGANGA: Siddhaganga is a place of pilgrimage three miles from Tumkur near the Kyathandira Railway Station. It is also an educational centre.

SIVASAMUDRAM AND THE BLUFF: Seventeen miles from Somnathapur lies the island town, Srirangamudram. It is about 20 miles from Madhni Station on the Bangalore-Mysore Railway line and can also be reached by bus from Mysore City about 50 miles away. The twin water falls, Gagana-chukki and Bhara-chukki, are the most alluring spots near the island. At Srirangamudram the river Kaveri branches into two streams, each of which makes a descent of about 800 feet. There are two temples on the island.

The Bluff, situated opposite the island, 5 miles by road, is the seat of the hydro-electric station established in 1902, the first of its kind in India and perhaps in Asia. For permission to visit the station, the Chief Electrical Engineer, Bangalore, or the General Superintendent, Srirangamudram, may be addressed.

SOMNATHAPUR: At a distance of 20 miles from Mysore by road and 15 miles to the east of Srirangamudram, the visitor will notice this small village in Mandya District on the Ramnagar road, about centre of interest is its exquisite Hoysala Channakeshava temple built in 1200 A.D. Right round its exterior walls an amazing variety of sculptures depicting the Ramayana, Mahabharata and Bhagavata stories are chiselled in the finest style of the time. The temple is surrounded by three elegantly carved towers of architectural beauty.

SRAVANABELAGOLA: 99 miles from Bangalore and 62 miles from Mysore, Sravanabelagola is famous for its Jain temples and its colossal Gomateswara statue, 57 feet high, the image is one of the grandest creations of medieval Indian art. It was built in 983 A.D. under the orders of Chamundaraya, the Chief Minister of the celebrated Ganga king, Rachamalla. The person whom the statue represents was according to tradition, the younger of two brothers who fought a duel over the succession to their father's kingdom. He won the fight, but generously made over the kingship to his defeated brother. There is a climb of over 500 steep steps leading to the statue. Once in about 12 years Mahamastakabhisheka, a religious anniversary festival of the statue, takes place and draws Jain pilgrims from all over India.

SRRANGAPATNA: Situated on the Bangalore-Mysore Road, about 77 miles from Bangalore and 11 miles from Mysore, is the island town embraced by the two branches of the Kaveri river, full of memories of battles and heroic glory. It was for a long time the capital of Mysore Kings. It was the capital of the viceroys of Vijayanagar, and later of both Hyder Ali and his son, Tipu, until it was captured by the British in 1792. The huge temple of Ranganathaswami, after whom the place is named, the large mosque of Tipu Sultan with four tall minarets, the Raja Dargah at Bagh, which was the summer palace of Tipu, the Gunbar or Mausoleum of Tipu, St. Paul's Bungalow and Abbe Dubois Church are some places of interest.

VASANTHAPURA: This is situated 7 or 8 miles to the south of Bangalore. It is a small hillback, on the top of which is an ancient temple dedicated to Sri Vasantha Vallabharayanam. It is a pilgrim centre and also a popular picnic spot.

VANIVILAS SAGAR: The Vanivilas Sagar, built by damming the river Veerata in a valley between two hills, is a tourist 'MUST'. Itsylvan surroundings, the vast spread of the lake above the dam, and the hillbacks on either side are an exhilarating sight. It is in Hosadurga taluk of Chitradurga District.

VIDURASWATHI: Viduramatha, about 55 miles from Bangalore on the Hindupur-Bangalore line, is a pilgrimage centre with a holy past and the scene of an important event in the history of the Congress movement in Mysore. Vidura, uncle of the Pandava, is said to have lived here. The big old Asvattha or pipul tree is said to have been planted by Vidura. There is a well-furnished Travellers' Bungalow under the control of the Taluk Board. Tourists are advised to take their own lunch.

Traffic

Rules of the Road are enforced by Government to ensure safety for all the road users and observance of these rules is of vital importance to achieve that object as otherwise it frequently leads to accidents resulting in serious injuries and even death of innocent persons.

If you find any other person is in the wrong and is not giving way to you or is disobeying rules and regulations or encroaching upon your rights, it would be wiser for you to give way to him and thus save yourself and save others from possible accidents.

Most of the accidents on the roads can be avoided by being careful, courteous and considerate towards other road users. Always allow for people's mistakes as they may not all be as careful or courteous as you are and under no circumstances try to retaliate.

Here are a few points for the guidance of the various types of road users.

Pedestrians

It is noticed from investigation that a very large number of accidents occur due to heedless walking by the pedestrian on the cartilage way, stepping off a pavement without warning and reckless crossing of the road.

Where there is a pavement or foot path use it. Where there is none, keep to the extreme left of the road. Do not step off it unless you are sure it is safe to do so.

Conform to the signal of the police man on duty and cross roads at the prescribed "pedestrian crossings" if any.

Never stand and talk with friends in the middle of the road, and particularly at corners. There are most unfortunate places for accident.

Never run across the road and in particular never change your mind in the middle of the road.

Never step out from the front of or from the rear of any stationary vehicle on to the road as a driver on the road may not be able to see you and may run into you. Always step on the road from as far away as possible from a stationary vehicle.

Cyclists

1. Whenever riding a bicycle, always signal your intention clearly and make sure that the way is clear for you to move even after you have signalled. After signalling if your intention does not entitle you to cut across the road. Remember that most other forms of traffic are faster and heavier and less easy to control than your bicycle and you are the one most likely to suffer if by your carelessness you cause an accident.

2. Remember that a large number of accidents are caused by cyclists riding more than two abreast. This also causes obstruction to all traffic and other vehicles which travel faster than you which have the right to overtake you.

3. Never overtake any vehicle from the left.

4. In your own interest do not carry any one on the carrier or cross-bar of the bicycle.

5. Never ride close behind a fast moving vehicle as it may stop suddenly and you are bound to hit into it.

6. Never hold on to a moving motor vehicle. The motor vehicle may suddenly stop or swerve and this will result in a serious accident to you.

7. Take special care in wet weather. You may have dangerous accidents by skidding on the road surface and coming under a motor car or motor lorry.

8. Always make sure that your bicycle is in good working order and particularly that -

(a) The saddle is of the right height for you; (b) a lamp is used in front of the bicycle at night; (c) that your brakes are in perfect order.

8. Don't do any trick or fancy riding while on the road.

Motor Car and Motor Cycle Drivers

1. A good driver is not a fast driver but a careful one.

2. A good driver drives on his engine and not on his brakes, and he must know that his vehicle will react in emergency and he will be able to adjust his ability to the road and traffic condition. He drives only as fast as he knows and he can pull up safely within the distance he can see which is clear and that is important particularly at night as distances are deceptive then and the area lighted up is very limited.

3. Do not drive in a spirit of competition and if some one wants to overtake you, help him to do so by slowing down.

4. When driving along an upgradient, always give way to traffic coming down as the slope vehicles are more difficult to control.

5. Never turn or reverse your vehicle unless you are sure it is safe to do so.

6. Speed limits are imposed for reasons of safety and to exceed these limits is obviously illegal as well as dangerous.

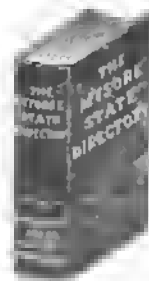

7. Have your brakes and steering checked up periodically, together with the other items of your car to ensure that they do not lead you into an accident or let you down at a critical moment.

8. Always show consideration for others by parking your vehicle in such manner that would not cause obstruction to other traffic, particularly by drawing up well to the left of the road. In particular, never park opposite another vehicle in a narrow street and never park near a corner.

9. At cross roads and all roundabouts always give way to the traffic on your right. This solves a lot of tangles and reduces accidents at cross roads.

10. While passing through congested areas drive slowly, do not spoil the clothes of pedestrians and cyclists. PLEASE SHOW COURTESY AND CONSIDERATION TO OTHERS WHILE ON THE ROAD AND KEEP THE ACCIDENT RATE DOWN. LET SAFETY FIRST BE YOUR WATCHWORD.
